Russian Rulers Continue Dictatorial Methods, President Eisenhower Says

Makes New Plea Against Cuts In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that Russia's new rulers continue to follow dictatorial methods despite their extreme attacks on the late Josef Stalin.

Speaking in measured tones, Mr. Eisenhower said the new Soviet rulers have made no effort to change their dictatorial methods. In the President's view, they merely are saying that the wrong individual was in power.

In other news conference comments the President:

1. Made another plea against heavy cuts in his foreign aid program. He said that unless Congress supports the administration's $4,900,000,000 program adequately and cheerfully, this nation faces the prospect of spending additional billions on more weapons for itself.

2. Disclosed that the United States is re-evaluating its policy toward Marshal Tito and his Yugoslav Communist regime. The President would not say, however, that the United States should cut off foreign aid to Yugoslavia now that Tito is becoming friendly with Moscow again. The United States must do whatever serves its best interests in this situation.

3. He disclosed that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will speak Saturday at Iowa State college, Ames, in an effort to etch in simple form for the American people the basic considerations behind the foreign aid program.

4. He said he did not believe it proper for him to interfere in the Wisconsin Republican primary where Senator Alexander Wiley, staunch administration foreign policy supporters, has been encountering difficulty. He said Wiley agreed with this position.

5. Said that Russia's invitation to Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, would be reciprocated with the same courtesies if high Russian officers wish to come to this country. The President was asked whether his old friend, Soviet armed forces chief Georgi Zhukov, might be invited to come to the United States. The President said that he did not know that any invitations would be extended. But he said that if Twining's opposite number wished to come he would be welcome and extended the same kind of courtesies extended to Twining.

Mr. Eisenhower set forth his views on Russian dictatorial methods in a news conference discussion of Soviet boss Nikita Khrushchev's Feb. 25 speech attacking Stalin.

De-Stalinize Red Party
The President said the speech was an extreme one. It was a deliberate effort by Khrushchev and his fellow leaders to de-Stalinize the Communist party, he

Senate Begins Debate on Social Security Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today prepared to start a long, hard, and probably close fight on the controversial social security bill.

Although debate on the measure was scheduled to open late today, no votes are expected until late this week or more likely, next week.

The fight will center on efforts to put back into the bill House-approved provisions stricken by the Senate Finance Committee.

The committee eliminated Democratic-sponsored and administration-opposed provisions lowering the benefit age for all women and disabled workers and boosting social security payroll taxes to cover the cost. These key features were approved overwhelmingly by the House last year.

As passed by the House, the bill would let working women and wives and widows of men covered by the federal old age insurance program collect benefits at 62 years instead of 65. Totally disabled workers could start drawing benefits at 50. Payroll taxes, paid by workers and their employers, would be boosted by about $1,600,000,000 a year.

The Senate Finance Committee allowed widows only to collect at 62, wiped out the lower benefit age for disabled workers and eliminated the tax increase.

WASHINGTON (AP)—On Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's desk is a card bearing this admonition: "Do it tomorrow — you've made enough mistakes today."

Advertising Copy for Register Must Be Turned in Earlier

The Daily Register will begin using its new 16-page Tubular newspaper press next week and, coincident with installation of the modern piece of equipment, plans are in the making for an even better newspaper than has been published heretofore.

Although the new press will print twice as many pages at one time at about four times the speed of the press now being used, additional preparation for the printing is required. The new press prints from tubular stereotype plates which are made after the conventional-type forms are prepared. Heretofore printing impression was direct from the type.

The plate making process must begin earlier in the morning and progress through the day, whereas under the presently-used process, it is possible for type forms to be put together at about the same time.

For this reason, it will be required that the Register advertising and mechanical departments have display advertising copy by 1 p. m. the day preceding publication. Printers will then begin composing advertisements in the afternoon preceding publication and complete that work early the next morning so that advertisements may be placed in the forms, and news and pictures may be placed to complete the forms. Classified advertising copy may be turned in until 4 o'clock on the day preceding publication.

The advertising deadline is a policy followed by practically all newspapers, and is not peculiar to The Register alone.

Hodge Denies Office Accounts Nearly Depleted

Says He Will Not Require Deficiency Appropriations

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—State Auditor Orville E. Hodge today heatedly denied a newspaper story that some of his office accounts are nearly depleted with about 13 months remaining in the current biennium.

Hodge said his office would not require any deficiency appropriations this biennium and would not require legislative permission to shift funds from one account to another.

He said he would show reporters any vouchers they wished to see. But said he could not allow reporters to be present when the vouchers were pulled from their files.

Hodge also told a news conference he would agree to have his office audited by an independent firm, but he said there were no funds available for such an audit.

Audit in Progress
He said an audit of his office by a Champaign firm was now in progress and should be completed by the end of this month.

Hodge replied to a series of stories in the Chicago Daily News. The newspaper said Tuesday that only $33,000 was left in six accounts in Hodge's office for which $1,400,000 was appropriated to last until the end of the biennium next July.

Hodge said his office was given a working appropriation of $6,193,000. He said $2,838,155, or about 47 per cent of the total was still unspent.

Hodge said he would supply newsmen later today with a breakdown of his various office accounts and the amounts of money still unspent from appropriations.

Stevenson Polls Heavy Vote in California Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—Primary returns from California established Adlai E. Stevenson today as the man to beat for the Democratic presidential nomination. They virtually knocked Sen. Estes Kefauver out of the race.

Jubilant Stevenson supporters acclaimed their candidate's showing in this final, crucial presidential primary of 1956 as proof that he can carry on a fighting campaign to win back the White House for the Democrats.

But the bruising campaign between Stevenson and Kefauver in the 1956 primaries has scarred Stevenson's hopes of winning the nomination that was handed to him on a platter four years ago. He still faces a struggle to win it this year.

Incomplete returns from Tuesday's California vote showed Stevenson polling over 60 per cent of the Democratic vote.

He also was maintaining a slim lead over President Eisenhower, who was unopposed in the Republican presidential primary. However, the Democrats have 800,000 more registered voters in California than the Republicans and there was no contest comparable to the Stevenson-Kefauver race to turn out the GOP vote.

Gains 68 More Votes

Already the front-runner in delegate strength, Stevenson gained 68 more national convention votes by his winner-take-all victory in California. The single contest gave him about 40 per cent of the 686 1/2 he needs to win the nomination.

Kefauver picked up 24 more convention votes Tuesday in South Dakota and Montana, where he was unopposed in Democratic presidential primaries. Montana delegates will be chosen later but they are bound by the primary vote.

With Tuesday's vote closing out the spring primaries, the campaign of Gov. Averell Harriman of New York can be expected to pick up speed. New York Democrats elected 86 of their 98 national convention delegates Tuesday and most will support Harriman. With 44 1/2 already listed for him in other states, he already can count on about 126 1/2 votes.

Stevenson's current weakness stems from the fact that his showing in the primaries has caused many Democrats to doubt that he could defeat President Eisenhower next November in a repeat of their 1952 match.

Kefauver conceded defeat in California about midnight, vowing to continue his fight for the nomination. But while he still may figure as a possible vice presidential nominee, his chances of winning the big prize are now cut almost to zero.

In a United Press tabulation of indicated first ballot strength at the national convention, California's 68 votes raised the Stevenson total to 375—far short of a majority. South Dakota and Montana lifted Kefauver's total to 164.

Six Counties Form Shawnee Hills Recreation Area

Scherrer Named President; Jones Urges Promotion of Scenic, Historical Spots

Six counties in the southeast part of Illinois, part of the 31-county Tourist Industry workshop meeting held yesterday at Southern Illinois university, organized into the Shawnee Hills Recreation area and named George M. Scherrer of Shawneetown its president.

Ray Mittendorf of Metropolis was elected vice president and William H. Farley secretary-treasurer. These three and A. H. Martin of Goreville and Harry Porter of Elizabethtown were named directors of the group.

The group was formed to promote specifically the scenic and historic spots in Saline, Gallatin, Hardin, Johnson, Massac and Pope counties. There were representatives present from all these counties except Pope.

Senator Glen O. Jones of Saline county, who has been working for the recreational development of southeastern Illinois for the past year and a half, spoke at this meeting. Jones told of his discussions with Gov. William G. Stratton, the state division of highways and the state department of conservation and of promises he had received from them.

He told of the economic benefit that would result from building up the area as a place which would attract tourists, not for people from New York and far distances, especially, but for people in cities within one-day driving distances.

He pointed to the great development in Kentucky and Missouri and said that "as time goes on, people will have more and more time and will be looking for recreational spots and we in southeastern Illinois have a God-given asset. Rich in historical lore."

"Look at the parks at Cave-in-Rock and Fort Massac," he continued, "and you'll see thousands of our own people. If these places are so attractive to our own people, they should be just as attractive to others."

Senator Jones then declared "we're rich in historical lore as well as scenic spots" and pointed out Shawneetown, Cave-in-Rock and Fort Massac state park as examples. Regarding Fort Massac at Metropolis, where George Rogers Clark is memorialized, Senator Jones declared that Texans have built Sam Houston into a monumental figure, "yet George Rogers

Doctors Remove Half of Brain, Change Unruly 'Bral' Into Sweet Little Girl

CHICAGO (AP)—Doctors have changed an unruly "brat" into a sweet little girl by removing half her brain.

The operation, performed by four surgeons May 14 at Wesley Memorial Hospital here, was revealed for the first time Tuesday.

The unidentified, 6-year-old girl left Wesley June 1 with a new personality. She was also free of the convulsions which seized her body 10 to 12 times a day, doctors said.

She can now look forward to a normal, happy life in the unidentified northern Indiana town where her parents live, the doctors said.

She still has a partial paralysis, causing her to limp and affecting the use of her left arm and hand. But she suffered from the same handicaps before the operation.

"She is cooperative, her aggressiveness is gone, and she is a changed and friendly child," a hospital spokesman said.

The little girl had been afflicted since her first year with a strange malady tentatively diagnosed as encephalitis or perhaps a brain infection.

She was so disobedient, destructive and unruly that neither her

Clark took fewer men and captured more territory than Sam Houston did.

"George Rogers Clark is ours—he belongs to us," the senator declared. "I think it foolish if we don't include him in our promotion of this area."

Urges Strong Group

Jones urged a strong six-county organization, declaring "anything we do must be viewed as an area proposition or not at all." He suggested underwriting of advertisements by the different communities to be published in the nearby metropolitan areas, as one way of getting people into the area.

He told of the promises he had received for his proposition to set up rest areas alongside the highways in this area, with ample parking facilities, stone fireplaces, tables, and information about points of interest in the area. He also was promised adequate signing of the highways so that people could go to places they were looking for."

Three Midwest Banks Robbed of Nearly $30,000

CHICAGO (AP)—Federal agents today began the task of tracking down bandits who robbed three Midwest banks of nearly $30,000 in 24 hours.

Two of the robberies Tuesday were carried out by lone gunmen. The third was a lightning raid by four robbers on a Chicago bank.

An apologetic bandit tied up four employees and a customer in the State Bank of Triumph, Ill., before driving off with an estimated $20,000, every cent the bank had in cash.

The other one-man holdup was carried out in Milo, Iowa, where a bandit drew a gun from his shirt and helped himself to about $1,400.

The Chicago robbers wore masks from stockings, and carted away at least $13,666, in grape baskets. They forced customers and employees, including a vice president of the bank, to the floor while they hurriedly scooped up the bills.

They worked so fast they scattered several thousand dollars on the floor in their race for the door. The Chicago gunmen cursed their holdup victims as they looted the Mount Greenwood State Bank.

They contrasted sharply with the Triumph bandit. Employees said he carried on a genial conversation for 15 minutes, commenting on the pleasant weather and saying he was "sorry" to rob them.

The Iowa holdup of the People's Trust and Savings Branch Bank was carried out by an unmasked man who first asked to cash some checks.

Area is Missing Out, Missouri Expert Says

31-County Group Holds Meetings, Workshops at SIU

Southern Illinois today was taking strides to capture its part of the tourist industry.

First steps were taken yesterday at Southern Illinois University, where the principal speaker at several sessions was Robert J. Shaidnagle, executive director of the Lake of the Ozarks association, Inc., of Lake Ozark, Mo.

Mr. Shaidnagle did not go to Carbondale to give the Lake of the Ozarks a big build-up. Instead, he told how southern Illinois was missing out on a lucrative tourist business.

The Missouri travel promotion expert could point to his own record. In 1950, when he was appointed to his present position, tourist business at the Lake of the Ozarks totaled $17,000,000 for the year. It grew each successive year until 1955 saw the figure reach $42,400,000.

And this year is expected to be better.

Third Largest in Missouri

In Missouri, Mr. Shaidnagle stated, tourist business is the third largest industry, ranking behind manufacturing and agriculture.

And, he said, the state of Illinois today is a state customer of the Missouri recreation spots.

Giving figures, Mr. Shaidnagle stated that of $275,000,000 spent in tourist trade in Missouri last year, $92,000,000 came from Missourians, $183,000,000 by outstate customers.

He told of the vast amounts of money spent by the states of Missouri and Kentucky to promote their recreational spots and the paltry amount allotted for Illinois at Springfield.

"Kentucky spent $250,000 last year to advertise its recreation areas, knowing it would get back far more than that amount in increased gasoline taxes," he stated. He also pointed to the sales tax a state can pick up from the tourists.

"State governments must be educated to the value of the tourist dollar, how it affects the economy of the entire state," he declared.

Pass Through This Area

Mr. Shaidnagle pointed out what was already known—that southern (Continued on Page Five)

THE STORY: Although Frank Ude suspects that Emmett Cash is a horse thief, Emmett has saved Frank's life. Frank follows Cash's instructions and goes to Cashtown, Emmett's home.

IV

The sound of boots on the hollow walk broke into Frank Ude's thoughts. He felt the scrutiny of a close look as he met a face dark as a saddle seat, with a bristly mustache and a look of ancient and somewhat weary wisdom.

The open vest displayed its star. The lawman gave him the briefest of nods and Frank was struck by the sheriff's eyes. They seemed as though they had looked on all the trouble the world had ever known.

The sheriff came to a stop in front of the furniture shop and spoke to the thin man. The man shook his head, turned to glance at Frank and Frank knew the sheriff already had started to ask questions.

Now Frank caught the slim man's glance turning alive. A woman had left the hotel and was crossing to the saloon. She was dressed in dark silk that came half way below her knees, and she wore a splash of red flowers against her breast. Her hair was yellow and shone like raw gold under the sun. Her glance drifted past the men on the next walk, swept onward until she looked fully at Frank. When she reached the saloon's side door she lifted her hand and waved.

A saloon woman. At least they did what they wanted in the open and a man was never in doubt as to the price of their favors. He returned her salute by tipping his hat, watching until she stepped into the doorway. The man in front of the junky furniture store hadn't missed the exchange. When the girl disappeared he turned to look at Frank. There was a hurt behind his eyes so deep it shocked Frank.

The sun kept hammering down and gusty wind was sucking fresh dust devils between Cashtown's hithills. This Cash, Frank decided, had amounted to something. Emmett Cash's father or uncle, no doubt. Frank's eye returned to the low saloon gallery where the girl had disappeared and read the sign, "Stephen Norring's Alhambra." Underneath, scarcely discernible through the overlay of fresher paint, he made out archaic lettering that said, Cash's Alhambra. One enterprise, he reflected, that old man Cash had let slip through his fingers. Had Stephen Norring beat him out of this? Had old man Cash gone broke? Questions. Questions that had no ready answers. In riding back to work with Emmett Cash, how powerful an opposition would they be bucking?

He drifted into the restaurant and veered abruptly after making a first selection among the seats at the front of the counter. A girl sat here beside the window.

The thought struck him with something of a shock that his change of counter chairs had been because of her, that his natural response had been to avoid this woman. He had not felt the same urge to throw up a defense when the girl outside had smiled at him. She had been a saloon girl, there were no strings attached. In contrast this girl at the counter crowded the rank memory of a range on which he'd drawn a joker.

She was a slim girl dressed in range-fashionable buckskin skirt and half boots with spurs attached. Her face was well molded and brown from the sun, the blackest of hair, and lips that were turned soberly at their edges to suggest worry.

She gave him an impersonal smile that would be considered polite for any stranger who was respectable.

"You rode past a while ago on the gelding. A beautiful chestnut."

Frank removed his hat, answering, "Yes, ma'am."

Her gaze kept studying his face. She was obviously puzzling why a stranger would show his distrust of her so openly. He realized she was a horsewoman. If he had missed it by her spurs he would have identified the sign by her mention of his horse. As with all men who had seen the gelding, the chestnut aroused her enthusiasm.

"A fine animal," she said quietly. "I would like to know, sometime, if your gelding can outrun my bay."

Frank smiled. "I'm afraid he could, ma'am. You haven't a chance."

Her face darkened and dropped to her own plate and Frank figured she was not too well pleased by him. He hadn't gone out of his way to make her like him. Presently a Mexican cook drifted from the kitchen and gave Frank silverware. He ordered from the verbal menu.

The girl meantime slid aside her plate. Frank heard a faint metallic click. He supposed she was hunting around in her purse. He hadn't noticed the quality of her voice before. Now he found himself comparing the velvety cadence with another voice.

"Juan," the girl called, "I'm going to the grocery for supplies. I'll pay you after I change a bill."

The Mexican returned to the dining room, his mouth pulled into the widest sort of a grin. "How you say, Senorita Jean? You put it on the tick?"

"On the tick, Juan," she laughed. As she went to the door, Frank slanted his glance and caught her head-on. There was a vibrant quality here that set his blood coursing. (To Be Continued)

Dr. Alice Wynekoop, Convicted of Murder in 1933, Dies

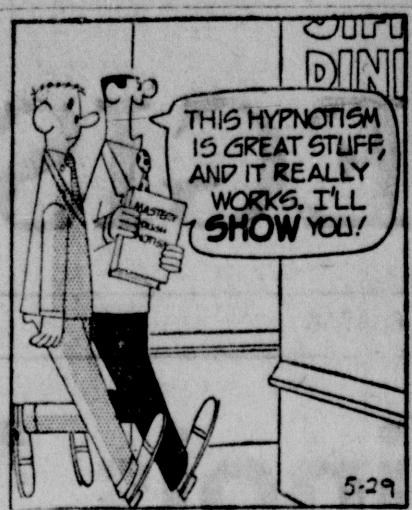

CHICAGO (AP)—The death of Dr. Alice Wynekoop, convicted of the murder of her daughter-in-law in a sensational 1933 trial, was disclosed Tuesday.

Dr. Wynekoop, 84, died in a rest home here last July. Her body was cremated and the ashes buried in Mt. Hope cemetery. The death was kept a closely guarded secret until Tuesday.

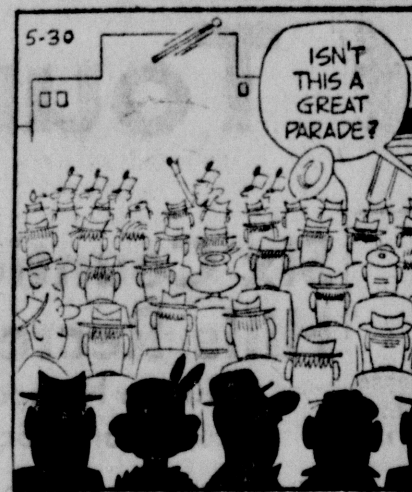

Dr. Wynekoop was a practicing physician for 38 years when her daughter-in-law, Rheta, 23, was found slain Nov. 21, 1933. The body was found shot in the basement of a mansion where the doctor, her son Earle, and Rheta lived.

The state argued that Dr. Wynekoop killed Rheta to save her son from an unhappy marriage and collect $10,000 insurance. She was convicted and served 14 years of a 25-year term before her release from Dwight Women's Reformatory in 1947.

Notes from Teen Town

By Joan Seright
Are you ready for the very latest from the Penthouse? Okay.

Our friendly chaperones for the month of June are members of the Lions club. Friday, June 1, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Sullivan and Mr. and Mrs. Karl Wallace chaperoned. Monday, June 3, Mr. and Mrs. Rob Roy Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Byford Wiley chaperoned.

How many of you have played on our new shuffle board? You'd better be practicing because plans are being made for a shuffle board and ping pong tournament to be held this summer.

We want to thank Denzil Pearson for contributing the game. It is the official size and is going to provide much entertainment.

We also want to thank George Barnes for the contribution of a truck and help to move it to the Penthouse. Thanks also go to Orval Dean for his hoist and a helper to get the shuffle board in the Penthouse.

NEWS . . . The Penthouse has some new "Summer Hours." Now that school is out and we don't have to be home quite so early, the hours have been extended. On both Mondays and Friday it will be open from 7:30 until 11:30. I understand we have some mighty good workers up at Teen Town. Last Saturday afternoon our decorating committee turned out in full force along with some willing workers to do some necessary cleaning and painting. I don't know the names of all those who helped or I'd thank each one but as it is I'll have to be content with just . . . THANKS TO ALL WHO HELPED.

That about winds up my news from the Penthouse so see ya next Tuesday.

SPRINGFIELD — Dr. George Czopiwsky, Vermont, Ill., a Polish immigrant physician accused of carrying on an illicit love affair with a soldier's wife, today was ordered to surrender his citizenship certificate.

Federal Judge Charles G. Bringle Tuesday granted a motion by the U. S. Immigration Service to vacate an order granting citizenship to Czopiwsky.

The order in effect left pending Czopiwsky's original petition for citizenship, and he must now prove he is of good moral character in order to regain citizenship.

The Immigration Service had charged Czopiwsky obtained his citizenship fraudulently by failing to tell investigators of an alleged adulterous affair with Mrs. Helen Fordyce while her husband was with the armed forces in Korea.

Czopiwsky did not deny the adultery charges. He testified at a hearing May 29 that he came here in 1949 with his wife, children and in-laws and was the only practicing physician in the Vermont area.

Two Ferry Boats, Barges Disposed of By Lambert Estate

The Guy L. and the Lucy, the two Ohio river ferry boats at Shawneetown, and two barges have been disposed of from the estate of the late Guy Lambert, who operated the ferry for years.

The boats went to the state of Kentucky, which was scheduled to auction them off. Kentucky, which built the new bridge that went into operation last week, bought the ferry franchise rights.

The Lambert estate matters were handled by Atty. Trafton Dennis of Harrisburg. A daughter of Mr. Lambert, Mrs. Myrtle Schwander of Shawneetown, is the executrix.

Attorney, Legislators To File Petition Opposing NYC Plea

SPRINGFIELD — An attorney and two state legislators plan to file a petition today opposing the New York Central's plea to abandon passenger service to some southern Illinois cities.

The railroad has petitioned the Illinois Commerce Commission to discontinue its only two passenger trains between Chicago and Harrisburg.

A hearing on the petition was scheduled for Thursday. Attorney Frank Pfeiffer and state Representatives Herschel Green and Garrel Burgoon were to file an intervening petition asking for a new hearing.

Arrest Parents for Flogging, Burning Four Children

PLYMOUTH, Conn. — A couple who police said flogged and burned two of their four children as punishment today faced charges of risk of injury to children and cruelty.

Henry S. Molski, 32, and his wife, Loretta, 29, were arrested after a school nurse told police one of the children reported to her with burns allegedly inflicted by his parents.

Police said the boy's hand was severely burned when placed on a hot oil stove as punishment. On another occasion, they said, a hot frying pan was held against the 11-year-old boy's buttocks.

Police said the Molskis often left both the boy and his 9-year-old sister alone at home all day while they operated a gas station and taxi, taking the two younger children with them. The parents often would flog the children with a cat-o-nine-tails because they had failed to do the dishes, police said.

Father of Five Is Electrocuted

WESLEY, Ill. — Kenneth Smith, 32, of Wesley, the father of five children, was electrocuted Tuesday night when a power line touched a well casing he was pulling out of the ground.

His brother-in-law, Harold Bertrand, also of Wesley, was working with Smith but escaped injury.

University of Illinois Student Drowns

CHAMPAIGN — Stephen Lemak Jr., a junior at the University of Illinois, drowned Tuesday while swimming at Lake of the Woods forest preserve about 10 miles west of here.

Lemak, of Berwyn, was swimming with five companions when the accident occurred.

Area Takes Steps to Get Tourist Business

Illinois has the same climate and topography as the areas in Kentucky and Missouri that are capitalizing on their natural resources.

He also said that Missouri had figured out that each out-of-state tourist who stops in Missouri one hour, leaves $2, which means about $2,000,000 in business annually.

An important thing that Mr. Shaidnagle pointed out was that many Indiana and upstate Illinois persons go into Kentucky and Missouri on vacations.

"And they pass right through your southern Illinois without stopping, although you have all the natural resources you will find in the other two states," he declared.

Mr. Shaidnagle also hit on other interesting things in Illinois that are not exploited sufficiently, pointing to the lack of exploitation of the Lincoln Tomb at Springfield and the great promotion given by Hannibal, Mo., to Mark Twain there.

"Although I am not discrediting Mark Twain as a great figure, he certainly does not compare with Abraham Lincoln," he stated.

Six Workshops
Mr. Shaidnagle spoke early in the afternoon to leaders of six workshops and to a six-county group from the southeastern part of the state.

He made brief remarks to the entire 31-county group preceding the workshops, then gave the address of the evening in the SIU library auditorium following a banquet.

Also held at the library auditorium meeting was an organizational session, where officers, a board of directors and an advisory council of 35 persons were named.

The workshop groups were held in the University school building, with those present attending one of the following:

1. Special area events, such as the Magnolia Festival, state fair, county fairs, Peach Blossom, Bald Knob Cross and others.
2. Recreational activities, such as hunting, fishing, theatre groups, lakes, camping.
3. Public agencies, such as National Forest service, state parks, fish and wildlife areas, state conservation department.
4. Scenic attractions and natural phenomena.
5. Historical points of interest.
6. Transportation.

Reports of all these workshops were given at a full meeting presided over by Ralph Bedwell, director of SIU's Small Business Institute.

The organization named 10 directors. They were Gene Comte, Murphysboro; Harold Wolf, East St. Louis; R. L. Hessler, Vandalia; Harry Weeks, Cairo; Jack Lewis, Anna; Keith Coleman, Mount Carmel; R. A. Bonfield, West Frankfort; George Scherrer, Shawneetown, and William Freeberg and John Barnes of SIU.

Family Enjoys Outdoor Supper In Backyard on Summer Evenings

How cool and refreshing the backyard or park is after a stifling hot day. Why not enjoy supper outdoors more often!

Kabobs are the perfect food for the outdoor meal. Here's how to make the kabobs in the photo. Form balls of seasoned ground beef centering them with small chunks of sharp Cheddar cheese. Wrap each ball with a half-slice of bacon. Alternate these on skewers with mushroom caps, small onions or onion wedges, and tomato wedges.

Grill the kabobs from 10 to 15 minutes. Baste the vegetables with butter while cooking. This gives extra good flavor to each bite.

If you want the meat to be rare, slip the morsels rather close together on the skewer. For well-done meat, separate the pieces slightly.

Make the meat balls about one and a half inches in diameter. If they are too large, they won't be cooked through by the time the other food on the skewer is done. Start thinly sliced potatoes frying in butter in the skillet on the grill before cooking the kabobs. The potatoes will take about 20-30 minutes to cook over a moderate heat.

To round out the menu, munch on relishes of green onions, celery, carrot sticks, and radishes. Serve herb butter French bread to go with the kabobs.

Four fat mugs of milk when you're ready to eat. Leave the milk in the refrigerator until the last possible moment so it will be served icy cold.

Dessert is simple—a cheese tray accompanied by fresh fruit. On the tray pictured here are four different cheeses. The small triangles are Cheddar, the larger, Camembert. The squares are Blue cheese, while Swiss is cut into finger shapes.

HERB BUTTERED FRENCH BREAD

5-6 servings.

1 long loaf or 2 small loaves of French bread
1/2 cup softened butter
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

1/2 teaspoon sweet basil
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt

Combine seasoning with softened butter and mix well. Make diagonal cuts 1/2 to 3/4 inch apart almost through the French bread. Spread herb butter on top and between the slices of bread. Place loaf on aluminum foil and wrap loosely. Place on grill for 10 minutes, turning often. Or, wrap in foil and heat in a 400 degree oven for 10 minutes.

Graduate Nurses Needed at Hines Veterans Hospital

Seventy-five graduate nurses are needed immediately at the Hines, Illinois, Veterans Administration hospital. The Hines hospital provides care for 2,200 disabled veterans, including blinded and paralyzed.

VA officials hope that recent salary raises will encourage graduate nurses not now active in the nursing field to resume their careers.

Under the increased salary rates for VA nurses, the minimum entrance salary for a graduate nurse in Junior Grade is $336 per month. This is available to nurses immediately upon their graduation from an approved school of nursing. Nurses who have had more extensive experience may be employed at higher salary.

The Veterans Administration has liberal personnel policies, including a 5-day, 40-hour work-week, 30 days vacation, 15 days sick leave, and 8 paid holidays annually. Low-cost housing is available. A uniform allowance is paid in addition to salary, and the laundering of uniforms is free. Low-cost government life insurance and a retirement program are available.

Additional information may be secured from the Chief Nurse of the Hines, Illinois, VA hospital, or the Chief Nurse at your local Veterans Administration hospital.

Report Available On Underground Water in Area

URBANA, Ill.—A report on the groundwater geology of 21 counties in southern Illinois has been issued by the State Geological Survey.

Dr. John C. Frye, Survey chief, said the report summarizes geologic conditions controlling occurrence and availability of groundwater for private, municipal and industrial supplies, and suggests efficient ways to obtain groundwater under prevailing conditions. Detailed information on groundwater supplies is given for Alexander, Edwards, Franklin, Gallatin, Hamilton, Hardin, Jackson, Jefferson, Johnson, Massac, Perry, Pope, Pulaski, Randolph, Saline, Union, Wabash, Washington, Wayne, White and Williamson counties.

Seven maps and charts explain geologic features of the area. Suggestions are included for planning individual and farm wells, and the duties and obligations of drilling contractors are summarized.

The publication is available at the Illinois State Geological Survey offices in Urbana free of charge. Entitled "Groundwater Geology in Southern Illinois" and issued as Circular 212, it was written by Wayne A. Pryor, assistant geologist in the Survey's division of groundwater geology and geophysical exploration. The Survey is a division of the state Department of Registration and Education.

Harold R. Hartley, Former Resident, Awarded Science Institute Stipend

Harold R. Hartley, former resident of Harrisburg, now serving as an instructor in the public schools at Miami, Okla., has been awarded a stipend in the Summer Science Institute to be conducted at the University of Arkansas June 4 to July 13.

The institute, which is sponsored by the National Science Foundation, is designed to help alleviate the acute shortage of competent science teachers in all phases of science. The major objective of the institute will be to provide subject matter necessary for effective instruction in high schools and junior high schools, and to develop stimulating, effective methods of subject presentation. Lectures by distinguished scientists will provide insight into recent advances in specific areas of science.

Hartley, who has been teaching at the Will Rogers school in Miami since September 1953, holds the Bachelor of Science degree from John Brown University and the Master of Science degree from the University of Arkansas. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, a professional fraternity for the promotion of research, service and leadership in education. Community Plans Activities For Its Older Citizens

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
MOUNT VERNON, N. Y. (UP)—Many of us will be around after 65 birthdays, but only a lucky few will live in communities organized to live up the later years.

A plan began here seven years ago show what can happen when young people get interested in older people, and the community gets behind their ideas with financial support.

Seven past-65 citizens attended the first meeting of the now-thriving club. They met in a tiny room and decided to call themselves the Senior Canteen. Church women of all denominations were behind the scheme.

It might have dwindled away into a rocking chair group bored with each others' reminiscences, but the young people interested in the project never gave it a chance.

Response is Good
They planned picnics and held beauty contests and lured professional entertainers from New York to perform. The club outgrew its first quarters and moved the meetings to a larger room in the modern YMCA-YWCA building.

Now there are 200 members from 65 to 96 years old, and the community has appointed a Committee on Aged and Aging to try and raise money for a Senior Canteen building.

This New York suburb has 76,000 residents of whom 7,000 are 65 years of age or over. The percentage sounds high, yet it is close to the national average. The latest census shows one person in 12 in this age group.

"We have found the members amazingly responsive to our ideas," said Mrs. Selma Brody, a young mother of two children who has been active in the canteen since it opened. "They like to be with young people, so we plan things to include teen-agers as often as possible."

Interested in Dancing
The latest group party was a rock-and-roll session. Four teenage winners of a dance contest at the New York City Community College accepted an invitation to give a demonstration of the way to dance to this new version of jazz tempo.

The Cadillacs, a quartet that specializes in rock-and-roll tunes like "Speedo," came to sing. A jazz combo donated its musical services for the afternoon.

At the end of the ear-splitting program, the club members were invited to ask questions.

"Will they show us how to do some of those steps?" one 76-year-old man asked.

Everybody applauded, and the sprier members promptly got up to

Nominations from 10 States for Journalism Award

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Nominations from ten states have been received for the Elijah Parish Lovejoy Award for Courage in Journalism, it is announced by Dr. Howard R. Long, director of the Department of Journalism of Southern Illinois University.

First of its kind in the weekly newspaper field, the award will be presented during the National Conference of Weekly Newspaper Editors, to be held on the university's campus at Carbondale, the week of July 16-20.

The award, Dr. Long points out, fills a real need in journalism. "Heretofore, there has been no recognition given to courageous editors in the weekly field who provide leadership and community enterprise to a large proportion of the nation's population. It is appropriate that the award bear the name of America's first martyr to a free press. It is planned to make this award annually in the hope it will inspire more and better examples of courage in journalism."

Those nominated for the first award are: Terrence T. Donnelly, La Verne Leader, La Verne, Calif.; Stanley L. Evans, Windham County Transcript, Putham, Conn.; Mrs. Mabel Norris Reese, Mount Dora Topic, Mount Dora, Fla.; C. E. Townsend, Granite City Press Record, Granite City, Ill.; A. L. Higgins, Linn-Palmer Record, Linn, Kan.; Matt Vernon, Eunice News, Eunice, La.; George Deaton Kinder Progress, Kinder La.; Henry Beetle Hough, Vineyard Gazette, Edgartown, Mass.; Mrs. Hazel Brannon Smith, Lexington Advertiser, Lexington, Miss.; and Mason Rossiter Smith, Gouverneur Tribune Press, Gouverneur, N. Y.

try the rock-and-roll beat. "Dancing is one of our most successful canteen projects," Mrs. Brody said. "We have regular Saturday night dances and often have an instructor to teach new steps."

You'd think the members might like to brush up on the waltz or maybe a slow fox trot. But the dances they ask to be taught more often than not are the mambo and the cha cha.

"Never underestimate the interests of older people," Mrs. Brody advised. "They love to keep up-to-date."

America's export trade in coal had its practical beginnings in 1897, less than 60 years ago, but ocean cargoes of coal have been an item of trade between nations for more than 600 years. The first recorded shipment of coal went in 1325 from England to France.

Utility consumption of coal to produce electricity in 1955 rose to 140 million tons, a total nearly double the 71 million tons used in 1945 and more than four times greater than in 1938 when pre-war production of electric power used only 36 million tons.

Meeting Friday Night to Organize Baseball Teams in Kiwanis League

Parents Especially Urged to Accompany Boys to Meeting; 9-20 Groups Invited

A meeting will be held at the new VFW baseball park across from the fairgrounds Friday at 6:30 p. m. at which time an attempt will be made to organize teams for the Kiwanis summer baseball program.

Parents are especially urged to see that their boys from the ages of 9 to 20 take advantage of the recreational opportunity the summer baseball program offers.

There has been a lack of interest so far in organizing teams this summer and it is believed lack of parents' interest may be the cause.

Managers of teams already organized will be present at the meeting Friday evening to help organize teams in the age groups present at that time. This will be the only opportunity for teams to be organized and if sufficient numbers of boys are present that teams may be organized, an attempt will be made to get the season started Monday. Contracts will be available at the Friday evening meeting for boys who wish to play.

Sponsors are available for the teams organized, but at the present time it has been difficult to get managers and enough boys interested.

The Kiwanis club, which sponsors the summer baseball program, is especially urging these parents who want their boys to take advantage of playing in supervised summer baseball, to take the interest in their boys and see that they are present at the meeting.

Eight or ten teams already have organized for the summer program but ten or twenty more teams should be organized so sufficient teams will be available in each league to provide competition and complete schedule.

The Kiwanis club also plans to schedule games with out of town teams for night games at the new park. Several of the teams played out of town in the night games last year and the club had hoped to have the league organized that night games could be played in return games here.

Archie Moore Floors Pompey 3 Times for TKO

LONDON (AP) — Ancient Archie Moore, more annoyed by a "very rude" referee than any efforts put forth by Yolande Pompey, may tackle Canadian heavyweight champion James J. Parker next in a possible tune-up for a heavyweight title fight.

Moore, somewhat weakened by the loss of 37 pounds to make the light-heavyweight limit, successfully defended his 175-pound crown Tuesday night by flooring Pompey three times in the 10th round for a technical knockout.

The finish came like a whirlwind, after eight lackluster rounds. Pompey, of Trinidad, was simply swept away by Moore's power punching and Referee Jack Hart drew the curtains of mercy at 2:50 of the 10th.

Hart, rather than Pompey, was the first person Archie spoke about when he reached his dressing room.

Hart warned Moore in the second round to show some action or get thrown out of the ring.

"I thought that was very rude," said Archie with a peal of laughter. He admitted that he didn't set much of a pace, but insisted flatly that he hadn't been "loafing."

When 39-year-old Archie finally had 27-year-old Pompey figured out, the end came quickly. After starting to connect in the ninth and leaving Pompey's face a bloody mask at the end of that session, he sprinted from the corner for the 10th and went right to work. Pompey hit the deck for counts of eight, nine and eight and Archie was bombarding him when Hart stepped in.

Gordon Herron Named Coach at Sesser; Raines to Carbondale

SESSER, Ill. (AP) — Gordon Herron, 29, a former athletic star at West Frankfort High school, was named today as head coach and athletic director at Goode-Barren Township High here.

Herron, who will coach all sports, succeeds Don Raines. Raines will move to the head coaching job at Carbondale Community High School.

Boudreau Defends Mickey Mantle Mousetrap by A's

By CARL LUNDQUIST
UNITED PRESS SPORTS WRITER
NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Lou Boudreau of the Kansas City Athletics defended his Mickey Mantle "mousetrap" today as "the kind of a defense you have to use against a guy who is batting .625 against your team."

Tuesday night Boudreau employed perhaps the most drastic shift ever used in a ball game in an effort to thwart muscular Mickey, the Yankees' centerfielder.

Boudreau put second baseman Jim Finigan in short right field, shortstop Joe de Maestri played on the second base side of the bag, third baseman Hector Lopez was in short center field, Enos Slaughter, the left fielder, played a deep dish third base, center Johnny Groth was in deep left center, and right fielder Harry Simpson was in deep right center.

The defense was used twice in the 7-4 win for the A's over the Yankees and, on both occasions, Mantle struck out. Later, with a man on base, when the defense was not used, Mantle blasted his 21st home run.

"He had batted .625 against us," Boudreau said. "We could not get him out. We had to do something. Was this the answer? Frankly, I don't know. Maybe you'd better ask Mickey."

Today, when lefthander Tom La Sorda goes for the A's and Mantle will bat right-handed, Boudreau said, "we will use the normal defense we would use for any powerful righthanded hitter, swinging our defense to the left."

Mantle admitted he might have been suckered into a psychological hazard against pitcher Lou Kretlow, whom he usually murders. "I helped the so-and-so out by bunting his high pitches for foul balls," Mantle said. "But if they want to try that any more, I'm for it. I'll get three or four hits every day. If they want to give me singles, I'll hit singles."

Rushing Named Most Valuable Athlete at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — A sophomore from Pinckneyville has been named the most valuable athlete of the year at Southern Illinois University.

Marion Rushing received the Henry Hinkley Memorial award Monday night at SIU's annual all-sports banquet here. Rushing won varsity letters in football, basketball and track during this past school year.

The most valuable players picked in individual sports were: Basketball, a tie between Richard Blythe, Hammond, Ind., and Seymour Bryson, Quincy; track, Blythe; baseball, Ray Tabacchi, Auburn; football, Jack Schneider, Glen Carbon.

SIU players also elected these team captains for next year: basketball and baseball, Gordon Lambert, Marion; track, Julian Dahneke, Effingham; golf, Andy Barnett, West Frankfort.

Rookie Hits 11th Homer as Reds Win, 9-4; Cardinals Beat Giants; Pirates Lose

By United Press

The Cincinnati Redlegs may not pick up all the marbles in the National league's five-team scramble but it's a cinch they've got the "rookie of the year" in 20-year old Frank Robinson.

A mere .263 hitter with Columbia in the Sally league last season, the powerful left-fielder is banging big league pitching at a .299 clip and Tuesday night walloped his 11th homer as the Redlegs romped over the Philadelphia Phillies, 9-4. At his current pace, Robinson will challenge Wally Berger's 26-year old mark of 38 homers by a rookie.

With Wally Post driving in four runs with his 12th and 13th homers and Robinson collecting two hits for the third time in four games, the Redlegs made it seven victories in 10 contests. In the process they helped throw the NL race into a knot as tight as Jack Benny's purse strings.

The Pittsburgh Pirates bowed to the Chicago Cubs, 7-3, but remained atop the circuit with a .585 percentage. The Redlegs followed with .581 and the St. Louis Cardinals, who beat the New York Giants, 3-1, are next at .578.

Dodgers Drop Braves

The Brooklyn Dodgers further tightened matters when they beat the Milwaukee Braves, 6-1, dropping the Tribe into fourth place a game off the pace. The world champions are fifth with a 22-19 record but in easy striking distance of the lead, only two games behind the Pirates.

The Pirates suffered their second straight defeat when the Cubs kayoed Bob Friend with a five-run rally in the third inning. Warren Hacker limited the Pirates to seven hits and had a shutout until the ninth when Frank Thomas belted his 10th homer with two aboard.

Willard Schmidt held the punchless Giants to five hits in scoring his third victory and first since May 8 for the Cardinals. Wally Moon's two-run triple in the sixth inning and Ken Boyer's 14th homer of the year accounted for St. Louis' runs.

Towering Roger Craig hurled a two-hitter to win his fifth game and give the Dodgers their second straight decision over the Braves. Southpaw Warren Spahn was lifted when the Dodgers scored two runs in the second inning and lost his fifth game. Randy Jackson and Junior Gilliam had three hits each to lead Brooklyn's attack.

In the American league, the on-rushing Detroit Tigers achieved the longest winning streak of the season when they outslugged the Boston Red Sox, 14-11, for their seventh straight triumph. Ray Boone knocked in five runs with two singles, a double and a homer and Frank House homered and drove in three runs to lead Detroit's 17-hit assault.

The Kansas City Athletics handed the first-place New York Yankees their fourth straight loss, 7-4, with the aid of three unearned runs. The Yankees committed five errors. Mickey Mantle hit his 21st homer of the year for the Yankees.

Lavandin Wins English Derby

EPSOM, England (AP) — Lavandin, the favorite in the field of 27, defeated American-owned Montaval by a neck today in the 177th running of the English Derby. Roistar finished two lengths farther back in third place.

Lavandin was ridden by Australia's Rae Johnstone. The colt owned by Pierre Wertheimer, millionaire French perfume manufacturer, and gave France its fifth triumph in Britain's blue ribbon racing event since World War II.

Lavandin was the 7 to 1 favorite in the grueling, mile-and-a-half race over the ancient Epsom course, which determines winners in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes. Montaval started at 40 to 1. He is owned by Robert Strassburger, a native of Norristown, Pa., who now lives in France. Like the winner, Montaval is a French-bred colt.

Roistar, an Irish-bred colt owned by Joe McGrath, was a 22 to 1 shot.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
Written for NEA Service

MYSTERY books have come to be nicknamed "Whodunits" because the stories are supposed to lead us through a maze of confusing incidents, sprinkled with clues to help the reader deduce the culprit's identity.

The plot reveals that a variety of human beings have sinned against their fellow men. However, one or more persons have committed sins which civil law will not condone. The end is reached when the greatest sinner of the cast is convicted or about to be convicted for his sins against humanity.

These mental gymnastics doubtless keep the mind alert to the strange ways of man or of some people. However, the unknown ways of men always seem to follow their pattern of duplicated errors.

The mysteries of God are in great contrast to the mysteries of human crime. God's ways are difficult to follow because we are so accustomed to look for evil that we do not expect to find an end of good.

God's ways are strange to us. He puts love ahead of cleverness. He puts faith above suspicion. He offers forgiveness instead of conviction. He gives beauty in return for ugliness.

The way of God is eternal life instead of a way ending in death and oblivion. The mysteries of God are built on giving rather than taking... rewards instead of punishment... love in exchange for hate.

We would do well to read more of the mysteries of God than the "Whodunits" of crime.

Haddon Davenport Discusses Small Loans at Kiwanis

Consumer credit is a key factor in America's economy. Haddon Davenport, operator of the Rex Loan company at Carbondale, told members of the Kiwanis club last night at the Masonic temple. He rated mass consumer credit along with production, distribution and consumption as the major factors in the nation's economy.

Mr. Davenport is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Davenport of this city and a brother of Dick Davenport, vice president of the local Kiwanis club.

He pointed out that small consumers do not maintain sufficient cash reserves to purchase larger appliances and autos and other needs of our higher living standard. The concept of borrowing and paying later for purchased items is based on the honesty of the American people.

Formerly, loans were regarded as undesirable. Mr. Davenport stated, but small loans are a necessity today, as necessary as the financing of big business. Almost everyone uses some form of credit. Mr. Davenport stated, some for purchases, others for education and for various things for the individual and his family.

He also explained the charges for small loans, stating they were set by state legislatures, which also limit the loans to $500.

Loans should be made only when necessary and when the charges are reasonable, Mr. Davenport said.

The speaker was introduced to the club by the Rev. William Burroughs.

Employer Group Aids Challenge to Supplemental Pay

SPRINGFIELD — The chairman of an employers' committee formed to oppose "guaranteed annual wage" plans, said today the group would "wholeheartedly support" a suit to challenge the legality of such plans in Illinois.

Barco Manufacturing Co., Barrington, and Grubb and Petersen, Champaign, Tuesday filed suit in Sangamon County Circuit Court to prevent payment of state unemployment compensation to workers receiving employer-paid "supplemental" unemployment benefits. Illinois Atty. Gen. Latham Castle ruled last month that supplemental pay plans are not wages, and therefore do not make laid-off workers ineligible for state unemployment compensation.

B. J. Cahn, chairman of the information committee on unemployment benefits, said Castle's opinion apparently was "prompted by political considerations" and that the Circuit Court suit "rightly challenges" the opinion.

150 Attend 34th Annual Reunion of Wasson Family Held at Bethesda Church

On Sunday, June 3, the 34th annual reunion of the Wasson family was held at the Bethesda church in Pope county. There were approximately 150 persons present to enjoy the day which was spent in visiting, worship and business.

Chairman Cecil Wasson called the meeting to order at 11 a. m. and congregational singing was led throughout the day by Everett Wasson. Rev. Vernon Wasson preached the annual sermon, reading as his scripture a part of the 14th chapter of Matthew and using as the theme of his message "We are richer than we think." It was an inspiring message, and L. A. Wasson made the remark that as a family the Wassons were richer than they thought by having such a promising young minister as a member of their group. It was the first time many of the family had had opportunity to hear Rev. Wasson preach.

Rev. Virgil Smith dismissed the morning session with prayer.

At noon two long tables were spread with a bountiful meal. The tables were placed beneath the huge trees in the church yard. Mark Wasson asked blessing on the food and the family ate and visited until 1:30 p. m.

During the afternoon session Eva Reed introduced the visitors who were present. Gertrude Hayes read the minutes of the 1955 reunion and Almon Stuby gave the cemetery report, stating that the cemetery was in nice shape and a balance of $72.28 was in the bank for the upkeep for the coming year. Each spring and fall the Wassons have work day when everyone brings their tools and a picnic lunch to spend the day working on the cemetery and church grounds. A highlight of the work day is eating fried potatoes and bacon and drinking black coffee prepared by Chester Wasson on the outdoor furnace in the church yard.

Carrie Wasson gave the memorial report. Only three members of the family had passed away since the last reunion, while Ruth Gates' report on births showed that 15 new babies had been born in Wasson homes during the year.

Bill Bramlet reported there had been four weddings during the year, and Sylvalena Wasson gave the spiritual report, stating that four members of the family had been converted and united with churches. Downey Wasson gave the treasurer's report after which Helen Wasson and Flossie Gibson passed the offering plates and received $100.78.

Kathryn Wasson reported the following graduates in her educational report: Eighth grade, Denis Bennett, Mary Jane Gilliam, Dennis Dale Wasson, Carolyn Farnum, Sandra Shelton, Carolyn Nadine

Grant Permission To Build FM Radio Station at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Permission to construct an FM radio station at Southern Illinois University has been granted by the Federal Communications Commission, Buren C. Robbins, SIU supervisor of radio-television service, reported today. Call letters for the station have not yet been assigned.

Robbins said erection of a tower and facilities for housing the transmitter and other equipment will begin as soon as possible. According to present plans, the transmitting antenna will be mounted on a 336-foot tower and the effective radiated power of the station will be 22,400 watts.

Hayes and Jane Ellen Black; high school, Charles Lee Reed, Marilyn Farnum and Richard Barger. The graduates were each presented with the Wasson Reunion gold medal by Helen Murphy, after which words of advice to the graduates were spoken by Loran Wasson.

Due to the fact that some schools continue into June, handicapping those living at a distance to attend the reunion, it was voted to change the date for the annual reunion to the third Sunday in June instead of the first Sunday.

College Graduates Face Rosy Outlook, Little Job Hunting

Schools Report Easy Placement, Good Starting Pay

By United Press

Illinois colleges today painted a rosy outlook for June graduates. Placement counselors surveyed by United Press reported the job outlook ranges from "good" to "the best on record."

Starting salaries of $5,000 a year no longer are a rarity, and a few specialists can command up to $7,500 right out of school.

Fifteen Illinois colleges and universities replied to a U. P. questionnaire on job prospects for seniors. They varied in enrollment from schools like the University of Illinois to smaller ones like Monmouth.

The placement officials declared unanimously that the general job picture is good. Martin H. Bartels, placement director at Northern Illinois State College at De Kalb, said it "seems to be the best on record."

Louis S. Gibb, director of placement at Monmouth College, said the situation "has never been better."

Many Scientists Needed

"We could place three times as many graduates as we have," Gibb said.

The counselors most often listed engineering, science, mathematics, teaching and accounting as the fields where the demand is greatest.

Engineering, the sciences, math and accounting all were cited as among the fields which offer the highest starting salaries. But several officials listed teaching as offering the lowest pay.

Robert Calvert Jr., coordinating placement officer at the University of Illinois, said the salary "bottom" for men there is about $300 a month. Some will get up to $500, he said.

For women, Calvert said, salaries average about $1,000 less in many fields, partly because employers feel women will leave to get married shortly after they are trained.

Calvert reported that competition among employers for seniors is up, and on-the-campus interviewing "is growing in intensity and scope."

"Our college of engineering already has several hundred companies scheduled to come next year, even though this school year has not been completed," Calvert said.

Salaries Are Higher

Gibb said he found that "well qualified students" at Monmouth were in demand and there was "no particular difficulty" in any field. He said Monmouth seniors were getting salaries from $3,600 to $5,200.

Registrar Ruby Cronk said some Greenville College graduates are going to teach in Michigan, where they can start at $4,200 a year. She said beginning salaries in some southern Illinois schools are $3,200.

Royce R. Bryant, placement director at Southern Illinois University, said the highest offers he knew of were $7,800 for a student trained in chemistry and math, and $4,600 for an industrial education teacher. Bryant said the lowest salaries were $3,000 for teachers and secretaries.

Frank S. Endicott of Northwestern University said he found "salaries greater" and "demand greater" than a year ago or five years ago.

Lucile Danker of Quincy College said top offers there were $400 a month in engineering and management, and $200 in teaching.

A similar reply came from John C. Roberts, director of training and placement at Western Illinois State College. He said the biggest salary offer was $6,300 in science and math, the low $2,600 in teaching.

J. L. Clements of Illinois College at Jacksonville said the general outlook was "excellent," with engineering graduates commanding starting pay of "$400 plus" a month.

Plenty of Jobs

A. R. Schwarz of North Central College at Naperville said "our people have no difficulty" finding desirable work, and "apparently there are plenty of jobs in all fields."

This was echoed by Kermit K. Johnson of Bradley University at

SWEETIE PIE

By Nadine Seltzer

"It's the latest thing—a safety belt!"

Peoria. He said there seems to be "no serious area where jobs are difficult to find" and "even demand for liberal arts people is up."

Several institutions with graduate schools reported a slight trend toward seniors staying in school for advanced degrees. But they differed on whether students are doing it to command better salaries.

Calvert said in some fields like geology and chemistry U. of I. students definitely want to take graduate work for better jobs. In geology, he said, a master's degree means $70 to $100 more a month.

Mrs. Thera Lindsey of Rockford College and Rockford Men's College said a "far larger" percentage of the seniors there is going into graduate study, but there was "no talk" about doing it for bigger pay. She said most hoped to teach in college and thus need advanced degrees.

Almost 15 million tons of coal were loaded off Newport News, Va., docks of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway in 1955, second best coal export year in the road's history.

Minister Stops in Mid-Sermon for Fire

SOPHIA, W. Va. — When the Rev. Arlie Mitchem joined the volunteer fire department here he agreed to drop whatever he was doing when the alarm sounded and answer the call.

In the middle of a Sunday morning sermon recently the fire alarm sounded.

Rev. Mitchem was true to his pledge. He called upon one of the church elders to finish the sermon, stepped down from the pulpit and ran for the fire station.

Six states produce almost 81 per cent of all the coal mined through surface operations. Ohio leads, with Pennsylvania, Illinois, Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana following in that order. In 1953, latest year for which full statistics are available, Ohio produced more than 21 million tons through surface operations.

Avoiding a Proxy War

Editorial — By BRUCE BISSAT Strong pressures have been put upon the Eisenhower administration to give arms to Israel in the bitter Middle Eastern dispute with the Arab countries. Yet this government has stubbornly resisted those urgings.

One of the principal reasons why has now been carefully expounded by Secretary of State Dulles.

We are trying to avoid the kind of "war by proxy" with the Soviet Union in the Middle East which Germany and Russia fought in the bitter Spanish civil war from 1937 to 1939.

Then Russia threw material and technical manpower into the balance on the side of the Spanish Republican forces. In opposition Germany committed strength to Franco's armies and a preview of World War II was had in miniature.

Cognizant of the peril for the world in this military adventuring, Dulles said in a recent speech:
"It seemed particularly important to avoid a situation where great military powers confronted each other, by proxy, under conditions which would engage their respective prestige in a manner ominous for peace, not only within the area, but possibly throughout the world."

Armed aid to Israel obviously would tend to identify us with that country, and by the same token work to separate us from the Arab nations. The latter, already recipients of considerable help from Russia, would be driven more fully under Soviet influence.

This is exactly what we do not want. We fear that those who urge arms for Israel, while motivated by understandable sympathy, would cavalierly invite the proxy war that too easily can grow into face-to-face combat between the world's military titans.

This government knows full well that the Middle Eastern spot cannot be allowed to go on festering.
It understands, too, that Israel will be progressively less able to meet Arab threats if a halt is not had to the rearming of its neighbors.

But it is America's belief that the solution of this controversy must be gained under the auspices of the United Nations. Dag Hammarskjold's brilliant start, with the arrangement of a truce, suggests our hopes are reasonable.

And, as Dulles noted, there are signs Russia, too, is becoming aware of the grave consequences which could flow from "playing fast and loose with peace in the area." We would like to believe Moscow meant it when recently it offered to accept a U. N. settlement of the Arab-Israeli dispute.

It should be plain from Dulles' statements that the United States is not sitting idly by while Israel daily falls deeper into the shadow of danger. We are indeed concerned and determined to maintain Israeli independence. But we are no less determined to preserve the peace of the world.

Hospital Readiness Key to Disaster Aid

CHICAGO (AP)—"If every hospital in the nation prepares adequately for local disasters, the problem of preparing for disasters of national scope is reduced considerably."

Dr. Harold Lueth, chairman of the American Hospital association's committee on disaster planning, said this in a newly published handbook "Principles of Disaster Planning for Hospitals."

"In disasters of any magnitude, people instinctively turn to hospitals for help. The disaster's impact on the community's medical resources is immediate and demanding, whether or not they are prepared to care for mass casualties," Dr. Lueth wrote.

The importance of community planning is emphasized in the handbook.

"A hospital cannot do its best job of saving lives unless the community has established a practical disaster plan for other agencies, such as police, civil defense, fire departments. . . . A hospital's disaster plan is not complete until it has been integrated with an overall community disaster plan."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
State Department Wanted To Veto Air Force Trip To Moscow; Joe McCarthy Long Had Plotted Against Sen. Wiley;
Wisconsin Popular Sentiment
May Win For Senior Senator.

WASHINGTON. — There was more backstage huddling over the Kremlin's invitation to the Air Force to view the Soviet air show than usually happens in backstage-huddling Washington.

In the first place, the State Department was peeved when the invitation went direct to the Pentagon, not through the usual State Department channels. Second, Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, suggested that the entire Joint Chiefs of Staff be invited.

Other officials couldn't be quite sure whether this was because Radford wanted to go too, or whether he figured this was a good way to kill off the invitation to the Air Force.

At any rate, when this suggestion was put to the Kremlin by U.
S. Ambassador Bohlen, he was informed that the Russian government would have invited all three joint chiefs if they had wanted them, but they didn't.

This reply resulted in another high-level strategy conference in Washington in which the State Department favored rejecting the invitation altogether.

In the end, Eisenhower and Gen. Nate Twining, Air Force chief of staff, had a private talk at which Twining pointed out that his experts could pick up valuable information if they went to Moscow.
So Ike agreed.

ton are planning a penetrating probe of the Treasury Department, regarding big bankers' influence on U. S. Treasury policy.

They believe certain bankers actually fixed the interest rate on government bonds. . . . Adlai Stevenson has adopted a shoe print as his personal insignia. His supporters are sporting silver emblems showing a shoe print with a hole in the sole—recalling a famous picture of Stevenson with a hole in his sole. The emblem is supposed to symbolize the new Stevenson—a man of the people whose shoes need repairing. . . . Ike's TV producer, Robert Montgomery, was so anxious to make a TV show of Ike's speech before Baylor University last week that the graduating class which the President was supposed to be addressing hardly got a look-in. Montgomery ordered a huge platform built for TV cameras in front of the President which blocked off most of the entire graduating class from the ceremony.

McCarthy's allies have been Tom Coleman, the Taft leader who fought so bitterly against Ike at Chicago and who still is resentful over that defeat; Walter Harnischfeger, the once pro-Hitler industrialist who sold McCarthy on releasing Nazi prisoners convicted of the Malmady massacre; William Grede, ex-president of the National Association of Manufacturers; and more recently the Texas gas-oil moguls.

Wiley fought against the oil-gas lobby during the Senate debate on the natural gas bill, while Mc-Carthy voted for the bill. Probably he felt he had to, in view of all the money the oil moguls poured in to back him.

SMILING GLENN

Last winter, the disgruntled Mc-Carthy began grooming Congressman "Smiling Glenn" Davis to run against his colleague, the "senior senator." Joe even tempted Davis to the point of announcing. Then Davis saw a private GOP poll which showed him running three to one behind Wiley; so he backed out.

McCarthy then switched to Mark Catlin, a junior McCarthy and speaker of the Wisconsin legislature, who, however, got embroiled in charges that he had received money for getting pardons for prison inmates. This killed him off, and McCarthy settled for his old pal, ex-Congressman Charles Kersten, who promised to devote himself to the task of getting the McCarthy censure erased — if elected.

But Tom Coleman and hard-core Wisconsin Republicans wouldn't take Kersten. He had been beaten too often. And they wouldn't back a loser merely to satisfy McCarthy's vanity.

There is no one except the Texas oil barons and Dick Nixon to whom McCarthy is more indebted than Tom Coleman. It was Coleman who climbed aboard the Eisenhower campaign special in the fall of 1952 and persuaded Ike to rewrite the speech he was making in Milwaukee in which he planned to snub McCarthy.

So, while convention delegates were still milling around the hall in Milwaukee last week, McCarthy et al switched back to Glenn Davis, promised him a $150,000 campaign fund, and nominated him for the U. S. Senate.

Note — Davis has to beat Wiley in the final Wisconsin primary September 11, and popular sentiment is so strong for the senior senator that Wiley will probably win.

grant has been made to Dr. Maurice Ogur, associate professor of microbiology at Southern Illinois University, by the National Sciproject in yeast.

The three-year project, titled directed toward finding what functions are performed by large molecules of phosphorous compounds in yeast.

Dr. Ogur, who has been at Soupublished numerous scientific papers on these compounds and on nucleic acids.

First Camping Period Under Way At SIU Camp

CARBONDALE, Ill.—A wide variety of groups—recreational, religious and educational—will use the facilities of Southern Illinois university's Little Grassy Lake camp during June, according to William H. Freeberg, chairman of the SIU recreation and outdoor education department.

This month's program opened with a week's camp (June 3-9) for some 60 southern Illinois members of the Illinois Girls' Athletic association.

Nearly 100 persons are expected to participate in Southern's fourth annual Playground Leadership Training Institute June 13-16 at the camp.

From two to six quarter hours of college credit will be granted for the course, which will include post-institute service on playgrounds in area communities.

The Southern Illinois Jewish Federation's annual camping period at Grassy Lake is scheduled for June 16-30. Overlapping with this program will be a Counsellor and Waterfront Directors Training Workshop June 18-30 involving some 100 SIU students.

Southern's summer Geology camp will be set up in the area June 18, continuing through Aug. 11.

Little Grassy and Giant City State Park camps for crippled and mentally retarded children will begin July 1, Freeberg said.

Romans Made Sure Of Getting Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—American taxpayers should be thankful that they do not have to go through what the Romans of 1600 years ago did.

One headache of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service is whether all who should file returns do so. The Romans had this problem licked—in their fashion.

An account of how Roman tax collectors filled their quotas still survives as written by Lactantius, a man living in Gaul around the fourth century.

"...wives (were dealt with) to accuse their husbands. When no sort of evidence could be found, men were forced by torture to accuse themselves. . . Yet this matter was not trusted to the first tax men, but new sets of them, one after another were sent about, that new men might always find new matter to work upon. . . By means of these oppressions the stock of cattle was much diminished and many men died; and yet the taxes continued still to be levied, even for those that were dead."

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Notable Quotables: VAN HEFLIN, about his post-war roles at MGM: "I was rejected by more women in five years than any man in history. I still have to fight this Hollywood type-casting."

MARGARET O'BRIEN, on how she feels about kids in grease-paint: "I think if they enjoy it like I did, it's all right, but they shouldn't be pushed into it, if they don't like it. I loved it. I never worked too hard and mother saw that I had a normal life."

DEBRA PAGET, about her future in the movies: "Not long ago I went to a producer's office for an interview. He gaped at me and exclaimed, 'Good grief, I always thought you were an Indian girl.' Then and there I decided to throw away my brown contact lenses and black wig and play no more Indian girls."

WILLIAM BENDIS, on a timely subject: "I don't believe actors should be in politics. It's a good way to lose half your following."

EVA MARIE SAINT, after co-starring with Bob Hope in "That Certain Feeling":

"Bob doesn't really GIVE himself in a love scene. His attitude is, 'Maybe I'll kiss you and maybe I won't.' Marlon Brando is another story. You believe he is giving his all. He has overtones of—let's face it—sex."

ERROL FLYNN, about doing his own stunts in "The Big Boodle": "My wife was worried about it. But I told her nothing could possibly happen to me because my agent just won't allow it."

JOE LANSING, on playing love scenes: "I always give a better performance with older men. They know what they're doing and give a girl confidence."

COMPOSER DIMITRI TIOMKIN, about film musical scores: "I always talk to the author of the script first to find out what he's trying to say. Then I try to help him say it with music."

ALFRED HITCHCOCK, on TV-movies: "Despite all this talk about sponsor pressure and the like, I believe there is really more freedom in TV than in movies. In a very interesting way the limitations in time and money put on TV production permit a certain ingenuity that is impossible in a highly budgeted feature-length movie."

JERRY HUNTER: "A girl no longer marries a man for better or for worse but for more or less."

JANE RUSSELL: "So long as my films finish with a good moral, I'm happy. I'll never make a movie with a bad moral."

MARILYN MONROE, explaining: "As for my mouth being open all the time, I even sleep with it open."

MONTGOMERY CLIFT, explaining why he stayed away from Hollywood for three years before accepting the lead in "Raintree County": "The one and only reason I stayed away from Hollywood is that I could not find a picture with the right ingredients. It isn't just story. Directors and players are also very important."

MARLON BRANDO: "Anybody can sing in a movie. You sing one note at a time. You sing that note until it's right and they put it all together, they work on it electronically and when you hit a clunker or near clunker they bring the music up and turn the dials and crank the machine. They can make an anteaater sing in Hollywood."

ROBERT W. SARNOFF, president of NBC: "Television, cannot advance by aping Hollywood nor by confining itself to stereo-type programming. The path to better TV lies in home-discriminating selection of programs by the audience and this is the path the public seems to be following."

Select the Right Abusive Word, Professor Says

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Professor Clyde Croubaugh of the University of Tennessee has produced a potential best seller. It explains how to cuss more effectively.

Professor Croubaugh's book is a slim dictionary entitled simply: "Abusive Words." He claims it is basically a much needed how-to-do-it book.

The professor, a financial lecturer and author when not studying cussing, thinks everyone should select the "exactly right" nasty word for any given occasion.

He frowns on profanity. "Abusive Words," he says, "produce a far more effective method of cussing someone out than profanity."

"The right word can be far more suave, much more subtle and three times as devastating as profanity."

For instance, Croubaugh is tolerant of the word "ass." But he suggests that one is more likely to exorcise a subject without undue danger by calling him a "randy," a "chub" or a "chaffy," which mean the same thing.

Croubaugh has a personal preference for the word "pick" rather than leech or parasite. He says it is safer.

And Croubaugh believes the words anile, beldam, blowzy, dab, dangle-tail, demirep, fleak, gip, junteo limmer or trull might be just the words needed by someone inclined to hurl abuse at a woman.

Croubaugh's favorite cussword begins with the letter "D."

"Darn, dern, dang," as he would say in polite company, are euphemisms of a term he considers basic to the whole fine art of billingsgate.

His book is divided into two parts. The first part is entitled "forms of abuse" and says that there are 75 different ways of cussing.

"Decide whether you wish to scold a person or to ridicule him or to revile him," Croubaugh said. "The reader will find guidance in part one. Then look in part two and get yourself some choice words."

Forms of abuse include accusations, admonitions, anathemas, backbiting, castigation, censure, chiding, damnation, exhortation, lampooning, scolding, maligning, reprimanding, twitting, and many others, according to the professor. "Scolding a man's soul can be a highly intellectual achievement," Croubaugh says. He considers Winston Churchill's description of Benito Mussolini as a "utensil," a tool of Adolf Hitler in World War II, a "classic of abuse."

And the word "liar" Croubaugh considers one of the most dangerous of the abusives. Most people, he says, react as the Virginian did in Owen Wister's famous novel: "When you call me that, smile."

Rising demand for coal is expected by experts to require development of at least 600 millions tons of new capacity by 1970, at an investment cost of around $6 billion. It is estimated that new mine development now costs about $10 per ton of annual capacity.

The Missing $2,400 Was Not Missing at All

HOLYOKE, Mass. — (AP) — Police questioned half a dozen persons before deciding to search George Rozek's apartment for his missing $2,400.

Rozek had reported the cash missing from its cache behind the refrigerator. Police found the money stuck behind bedroom curtains.

Rozek, who said he must have forgotten putting the money there, told police he wanted to "make it an even $2,500" before depositing the money in a bank.
